

Battle of the Banned by Amy Rogers—Principal Celestia and Vice Principal Luna are walking separately around the empty Canterlot High campus making sure that all is well. As they do, they see all the signs around Canterlot High for the band auditions. The two end up meeting up in the music room, where they see the girls' instruments. Luna picks up Rainbow Dash's guitar while Celestia takes Fluttershy's tambourine and stands by Twilight's microphone. "Remember our band in high school?" Luna asks reminiscing fondly. "Yeah, maybe we should have a reunion and play together again!" suggests Celestia.

The two FLASHBACK to when they were high school students at Canterlot High. Luna is a dark, brooding Goth while Celestia is all sweetness and light. And their musical tastes reflect this. Luna just wants to wail on her guitar singing moodily like Morrissey while Celestia is channeling her inner Karen Carpenter giving easy listening music a run for its money. And together, they sound horrible! The rest of the band mates don't know who to follow as these polar opposite teen sisters begin to bicker. Celestia is about to banish Luna from the band when...

They return to reality and realize that putting the band back together is a really, really bad idea.
