

17) Volume Control by Cindy Morrow -- The Equestria Girls are all set up to practice in the school's band room when the instructor has to kick them out. They carry their equipment to different locations in a search of a good practice space. In the school's gym, the girls' loud music messes up the basketball team's shooting practice. At Sugar Cube Corner, their loud beats send cupcakes toppling and they are sent on their way. At the library they don't even get through the front door! Finally Apple Jack has an idea! They trek all the way out to a secluded barn where no one will complain about their loud music! But when they finally get out there.... Applejack realizes there's nowhere to plug in their instruments!

18) Road Less Traveled by Cindy Morrow -- The Cutie Mark Crusaders have signed on to be the Equestria Girls' roadies, anything to be a part of the band. Their first job is to help move the equipment. Applejack shows them the bass amp that they need to move. It's HUGE! The CMCs try to lift it up together. They try to pull it, but it's still too heavy. When they push it, no luck! Hmm...maybe they aren't cut out for this! Apple Bloom tries to kick it – not from apple bucking, from karate. Sweetie Belle tries to “sweet talk” her sister into helping. Risk a fingernail? “No way!” cries Rarity! Finally, Scootaloo gets an idea—Her scooter! The CMCS put the front of the speaker on the scooter, and while Scootaloo steers, Apple Bloom and Sweetie Belle lift from the back and push. Finally, they move the amp! They take a breather and confidently they ask for their next job. Rainbow Dash has one—she points to HER amp—which is EVEN BIGGER than the one they just moved!

19) Practice vs. Practice by Cindy Morrow – Rainbow Dash grabs her guitar from her locker and sets off for band practice. Just as she's leaving, her teammate reminds her about track practice. How could she forget? She runs back to the field, where her team is doing laps. She quickly does her laps and hurdles, passing everyone. She grabs her guitar, and sets off again. But then she passes her softball team. Was today softball practice, too?? She grabs her cap and mitt and joins the team. In quickly cut scenes, she strikes out a batter, tags someone on third and throws to first. She then bats a homerun. The way the scenes are cut, it looks like she is playing every position. She quickly waves to the coach and grabs her guitar, taking off. As she passes the gym, her teammates flag her down—how could she forget ping-pong practice?? She sighs, runs in, and quickly grabs her paddle. Some serious ping-ponging ensues. Finally she ends up at band practice, apologizing to all for being late, but insisting she is raring to go. They start practice, but something seems off. They look over to see an exhausted Rainbow Dash passed out on her amp.
