The girls find themselves in Everfree Forest! Sunset explains: that was no ordinary shimmering reflective pool—it’s a portal connecting their worlds! In fact, she realizes this might explain the legend of the Two-Hoof tribe-- a lost tribe of ponies who walked upright. Maybe they were human sailors who found their way through the portal and ended up in Equestria...? Either way, they have a way home now; they’ve just got to get to Ponyville and go through Twilight Sparkles’ portal. As they make their way through the forest, we have a quick final test for SciTwi/RD (maybe instead of cavalierly charging into potential danger, RD defers to SciTwi’s caution and they avoid waking up a Manticore).

Finally, they get into Ponyville and we see it through their eyes—getting to appreciate all the wonderful things we love about MLP from their perspective. SciTwi thinks it’s great too, but uhhh... it’s Monday morning back home and if they don’t get back soon they’re going to be late for school. Everyone is bummed. Pinkie Pie: “Do we at least have time for a montage? It’ll have a song!” SciTwi: “.... oh, alright.” CUT TO FUN SONG and JOKES APLENTY with mistaken identity and meeting their doubles (e.g., when the Pinkie Pies meet up, they have a Pinkie Pie-off to see who’s the better Pinkie Pie.) Eventually they meet up with Twilight Sparkle (the pony), whose mind races with possibilities (and cool lore!) – could there be other portals? Or even other worlds!? NO TIME FOR THAT-- SCI TWI WILL NOT HAVE A TARDY ON HER RECORD! Pony Twilight totally understands and insists they go to her mirror. They say goodbye as they step through and return to Canterlot High, just in time for the first day of class after break. Diamond Tiara is like... soooooooooo happy they’re back: “I knew you’d make it, that’s why we stopped waiting for you!”

Final sweet thing: Rainbow Dash has a big soccer game and lets herself freak out because she didn’t get a chance to practice during spring break. “I hate not being prepared!” SciTwi reassures her that it’s okay... besides, win or lose, your friends will be there cheering for you.

OH, YEAH and as a final joke we reveal that the pinkie pies switched places like Parent Trap.

THE END!
