

Distribution:

Production:

Chris Bartleman
Sarah Wall
Meghan McCarthy
Jayson Thiessen
James Wootton
Angela Belyea

Discovery/Hasbro:

Donna Ebbs
Scott Pennington
Tegan Molloy
Laurence Braun
Stephen Cramer

Hasbro Studios:

Stephen Davis
Linda Steiner
Kathy Page
Robert Fewkes
Sophia Hussain

Hasbro IP & Brand

Mark Wiesenbahn
Matt Mattus
Valerie Jurries
Donna Tobin

Hasbro Design:

Liz Knight
Dean Carley

MY LITTLE PONY III

Premise

"Spike at Your Service"

Premise by

Meghan McCarthy

Premise: July 29, 2011

Notes Due: August 1, 2011

SPIKE AT YOUR SERVICE

When Applejack single-handedly rescues Spike from certain death, he feels indebted to her and vows to pay her back for her good deed. At first Applejack appreciates Spike's efforts to show his appreciation for the fact that she saved his life, but soon all his fawning over her becomes tedious. He's doing everything for her whether she wants him to or not. Meanwhile, Rarity has started to notice that Spike is no longer fawning over her and secretly starts to get jealous of the attention he's paying her friend. Applejack finally decides that the only way Spike will ever consider things even is if he is able to save her life. Applejack tries creating scenarios that make it look like she's in danger so that Spike can come to her rescue, but the dragon sees right through her plot. A desperate Applejack finally sets in motion a plan that will legitimately put her life at risk, but still allow Spike to easily rescue her. But when Spike thinks she's just trying to trick him again, Applejack finds herself in real trouble. It is Rarity who ultimately has to step in and come to her aid. Spike is so thankful that Rarity has saved the life of the pony that saved his life that he vows to pay Rarity back in any way he can. Applejack agrees that this is only fair. She gladly tackles a long list of chores as Rarity pretends to be put out by Spike's renewed desire to wait on her hand and foot.