

HAUNTED MANSION

MADAME LEOTA – 35

Madame Leota is a psychic and medium, with a supernatural connection to the beyond.

She acts as our mysterious Yoda or Gandolf, giving our characters clues, warnings, and prophecies. But it's obvious that she knows much more than she reveals.

Leota is a no bullshit kind of woman. She tells it like it is. There is no pampering or coddling.

She starts out detached from the kids, referring to them collectively as “children” rather than using their names, but over the course of the story grows closer and more protective. She lets them get closer as well.

She is a ghost.

HAUNTED MANSION - LEOTA SIDES

1. LEOTA (MYSTERIOUS)

Your arrival here this night was no accident. The mansion told me you were coming. But I must warn you to leave now... while you still can.

2. LEOTA (FRUSTRATION TO RESIGNATION)

No. It doesn't work like that. While the present and the past remain painfully clear to my mind's eye, the future is always changing. I see pieces, hear whispers, catch fragments of moments, nothing more.

3. LEOTA (URGENT)

Come quickly children, if you want to live.

4. LEOTA (DEATHLY SERIOUS WARNING)

Stay away from her. The bride is no longer a woman, or even a ghost for that matter. She is the abyss that walks, a force of darkness without reason or pity. Even the dead fear her.

5. LEOTA (WARMLY)

Newt, you've done the impossible; you surprised me. We're all very proud of you; the mansion, the ghosts, me, but no one more than your parents. Just know you'll always have a home here. Always.

6. LEOTA (SORROW)

I sacrificed my body to save you, Sloane, but I was able to transfer my consciousness at the last moment. It is far from ideal. I'll be forced to remain here forever. I appeal to you all not to let my sacrifice be in vain. Finish what you have started.

7. LEOTA (RAGING)

I warned you once already, demon. You are NOT WELCOME HERE!
