

SGT. PEEPERS

Sgt. Peeper's could easily give Napoleon a run for his famous complex. Short, squishy and cute, Peepers would have taken over the universe well before his boss, Lord Hater, did, if it were not for his adorable stature. A brilliant tactician and a ruthless commander, it would have been easy---- if only he could be taken seriously. His intelligence, penchant for engineering and inventing, along with his nasally, weasely voice and often nerdy demeanor doesn't help. To compensate, Peepers has developed a MASSIVELY short temper. He can turn on you at a moment's notice for only the slightest offense. In fact, he's so quick to have a coronary, he comes across as cartoonishly bi-polar. When he's not on the verge of an aneurism from screaming, he may be calm and calculating, reflecting on the pleasantries of war making, and even congratulating his men on a job well done. The only being spared Peeper's rage is Lord Hater. With much effort, Peeper's manages to hold his tongue with his childish leader, holding his hand and coddling him even when he's making the stupidest calls.
