FOCUS GUIDE

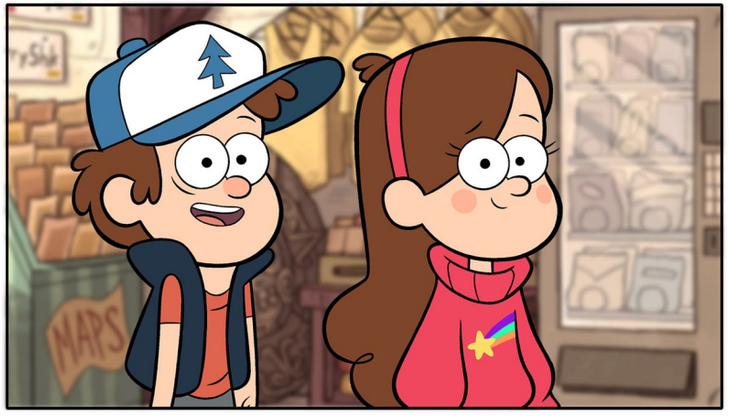

In general we want to use soft focus on this show to help make characters, props, etc. stand off the background, to help show depth, and to mimic the look of how live action cameras capture scenes using depth of field.

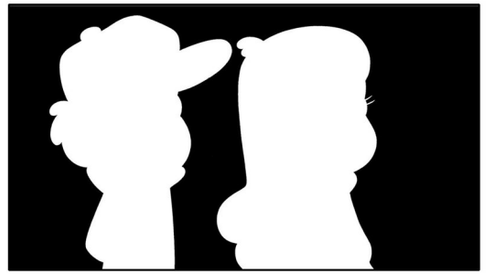

Soft focus examples:

No soft focus

Medium or close up soft focus

FOCUS GUIDE

Soft focus is a general rule that should be broken when it conflicts with a story point. In this storyboard panel, we need to see what is happening in the distant boat, so it should remain in focus.

Stan Eyebrow Animation Guide

To prevent retakes on eyebrows, please follow the rules below.
- If eyebrows touch eyes in Storyboard, please have eyebrows touch eyes in Animation.

Storyboard:
- Eyebrows touch eyes

Overseas Take 1:
- Animation received does not reflect storyboards

Retake notes:
- Adjust eyebrows to touch eyes to match storyboard

Stan Eyebrow and Glasses Guide

When Stan's brows animate down in front of his glasses, the glasses should be animated with a very subtle bend. This will make for a more clear expression.

If the rim of the glasses does not bend, it makes for an overly complicated drawing. Please avoid this.

If the rim of the glasses bend at the same rate as his eyebrows, the glasses feel too soft. Please avoid this.

FINAL

When animating Mabel's mouth positions, we would like you to pop from the teeth and braces position in mouth 'B' to the teeth position mouth 'C'. The teeth should remain locked. We do not want the braces and top teeth to appear as though they are sliding. The inbetween drawing should have locked teeth with only the mouth shape and tongue being animated.

Mabel has 3 braces on her teeth. When her expression is broad, all three shapes should be visible (as in figure A).
In many cases, and in most of her mouth positions, the 3rd brace is obscured by her cheek (as in figure B and C).
